

FIXING THE BROKEN SYSTEM

As the son of immigrants, immigration reform is an issue close to David's heart. David knows that our current system is broken and in need of comprehensive repair.

David supports a reasonable and responsible pathway to citizenship for those wishing to enter our country and those already here. This will allow many undocumented immigrants to come out of the shadows, get involved in their children's education, find employment, and raise their families.

An important aspect of immigration reform is addressing concerns of the agriculture industry and farm workers. Developing a guest worker program that will enable access to a reliable workforce is crucial to the stability of our local agricultural economy. Most importantly, David believes that we should recognize the importance of family in American society and acknowledge the danger of separating families. Rather than targeting those simply trying to raise their families, we should equip law enforcement with the tools to focus on undocumented immigrants who have committed serious crimes.

Reforming our nation's immigration system is a massive undertaking. David will work on immigration reform until a solution is reached.
